Learning Question:

How can I write a travel brochure using persuasive language to promote a holiday to Rome, Italy?

Success Criteria:

- ✓ Conduct effective research about Iceland as a holiday destination.
- ✓ Understand key features of a travel brochure
- ✓ Identify and use persuasive language
- ✓ Combine features of a travel brochure, persuasive language and research about Rome to create my own brochure.

Vocabulary:

- Persuasive language
- Research
- Writing for a purpose
- Text
- Non-fiction

OUR TARGETS TODAY !

We are going to be creating a travel brochure to Rome. This travel brochure will be for when the coronavirus is no longer an issue and the lockdown has been completely lifted.

- ✓ Learn about Rome and why people might want to visit.
- ✓ Identify persuasive language.

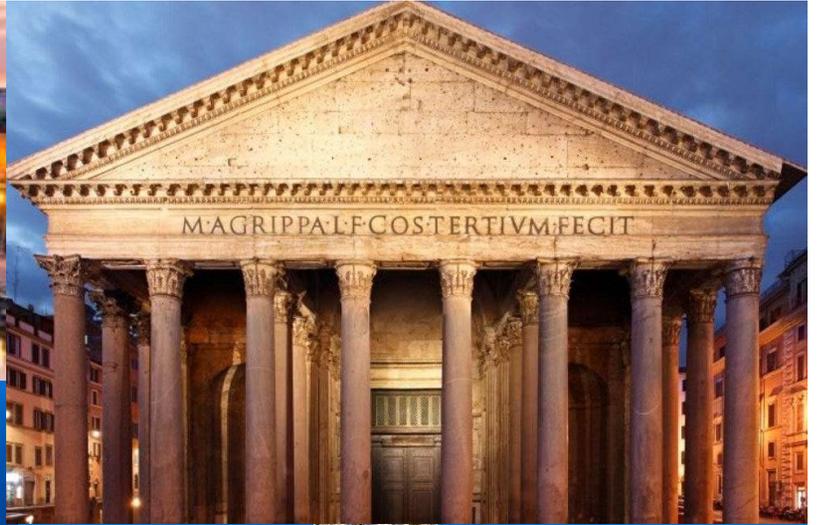

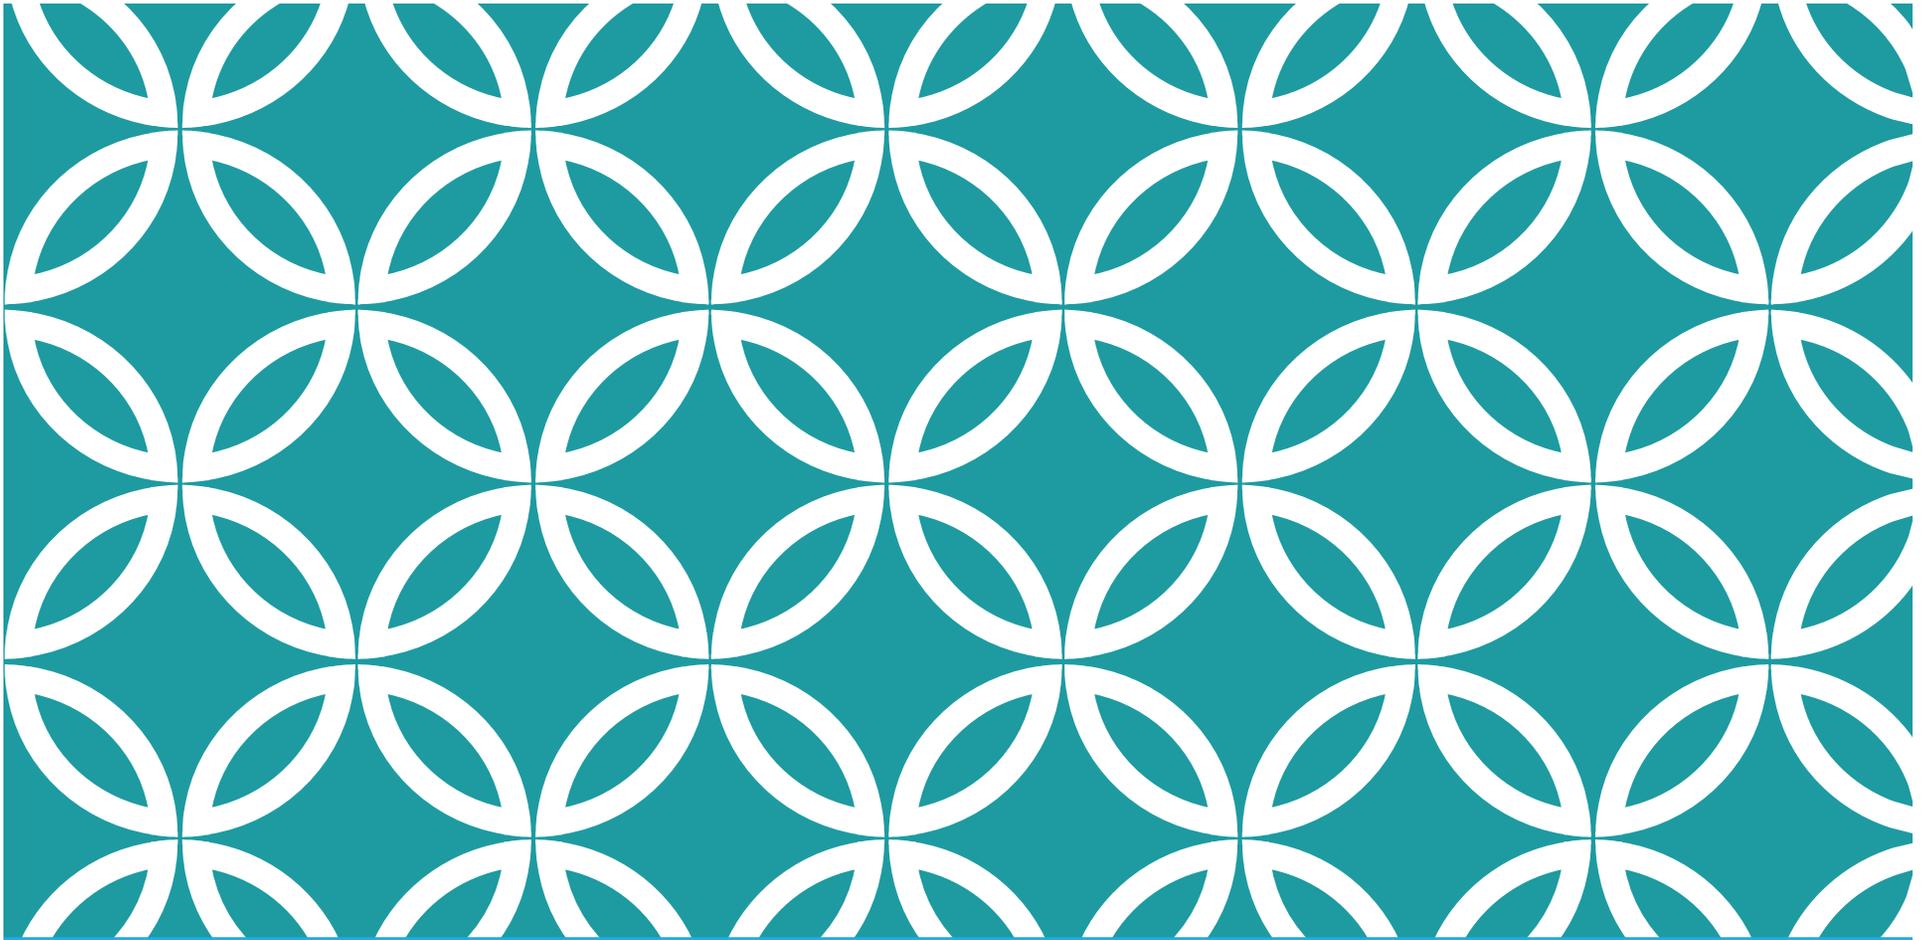

What do these pictures
tell you about Rome?
What questions do you
want to ask from them?

Write down any ideas on a piece of paper

Think about using powerful adjectives !

Think about any questions you would want answering before going to Rome.

You may want these questions answered ...

What language do they speak in Rome?

How long will it take me to get there from London?

How much will it cost me to stay in Rome?

What activities are there to do in Rome?

Where is Rome?

What is the food like in Rome?

TAKE A PIECE OF PAPER AND SPLIT IT INTO 4 SECTIONS

Organising my notes

1. Planning your trip
2. Activities
3. Food
4. Places to stay
5. Other facts and things of interest

VIDEOS ABOUT TRAVELLING TO ROME

Make notes from the video

YOUR TASK

Research Rome. There is some research on the IVJS website, and you can use the videos or research things yourself.

Remember that you are trying to persuade the person reading to want to Rome. (this is aimed to be read after the coronavirus if no longer an issue)

Separate your research into the 5 different categories.

Try and answer all the questions that you had about going to Rome.
